DEATH OF REV. DR. ELI HUBER

Dr. Huber Dies at his Home on Carlisle Street after an Illness of Several Months. Widely Known Minister and Educator.

Rev. Dr. Eli Huber died shortly before half past one this afternoon at his home on Carlisle street after an illness of several months. He was aged 77 years, 3 months and 28 days.

Dr. Huber was one of the most widely known and highly esteemed ministers and educators in the Lutheran church. He served many parishes, at every place winning the regard, the esteem and the love of the people among whom he labored. In Gettysburg his friends and admirers were numbered by the extent of his acquaintanceship. He was recognized by all as a thorough scholar and a sincere Christian gentleman. There have been few men in Gettysburg in recent years who have held the regard of their acquaintances so absolutely as Dr. Huber.

He was born January 14, 1834 in Pinegrove, Schuylkill county, the son of Jacob and Sarah Huber. At the age of sixteen years he entered the preparatory department of the college at this place and graduated from college six years later. The year following his graduation he was a tutor in the local institution and for the next year taught in the academy at Greencastle.

He graduated at the Theological Seminary here and was pastor of the Lutheran church at Schuylkill Haven from 1858 to 1860; at Danville 1860-1861 and at Hummelstown 1861-1866. From 1861 to 1876 he was pastor of a Lutheran church in Nebraska City, Nebraska, and while in that city was for one year professor of Languages in Otter University, also serving a three year term as superintendent of city schools. In 1876 he accepted a call to Messiah Lutheran church, Philadelphia, where he continued as pastor until 1892 when he came to Gettysburg to accept the chaplaincy and the Amanda Rupert Strong professorship of English Bible in the college.

Dr. Huber's scholarship, his kindness and his beautiful Christian life were never more apparent than in his relations in connection with the classroom. He continued as professor until 1904 when he resigned. Since then he has frequently been sought as a lecturer and instructor at religious gatherings. He had been connected with the Lutheran Board of Publication and actively interested in all the affairs of the church to which he devoted his entire life.

On April 22, 1890 Dr. Huber married M. Ellen Deibert, of Schuylkill Haven. Three children from this union survive, Rev. Professor Charles H. Huber and Mrs. John M. Biocher, of this place, and Mrs. Hibbs, of Norristown.

The funeral arrangements are not completed.

SURPRISE PARTY

An enjoyable surprise party was held on Wednesday evening, May 10, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Kump near St. John's church in honor of Mrs. Kump. Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Kump, Augustus Hafe and wife, Oliver Spangler and wife, Wesley Staveland and wife, David Messenger and wife, Claude Dull and wife, Charles Shue and wife, Mervin Wintrobe and wife, Calvin Myers and wife, Emma Staveland, Janette Hafe, Ruth Harner, Myrtle Harner, Mary Shue, Bertha Shue, Pauline Messenger, Clara Hafe, Edna Shue, Alta Wintrobe, Blanche Shue, Mary Gouker, Dorothy Hafe, Hilda Dull, Annie Shue, Ralph Wehler, Claude Harner, Eugene Kuhn, Emiel Kopp, Harry Harner, Lloyd Staveland, Samuel Renner, Earl Spangler, Preston Shelly, Ernest Renner, Nevin Kump, Joseph Gouker, Glenn Wintrobe, John Hafe, Peter Gouker.

QUARANTINE DOGS

Following the mad dog incident of Sunday Mayor Weaver, of York, has issued a proclamation calling upon the owners of all dogs within the city limits to muzzle any of these animals permitted to be at large upon the streets for a period of 30 days.

The proclamation of the mayor states that for a period of 30 days, all unmuzzled dogs must be kept confined upon the premises of their owners. The appointment of a dog catcher has been made and any dogs found upon the streets without muzzles during the quarantine period will be picked up without regard to license tags or registration.

HAD LUMBER BURNED

N. H. Musselman had about a carload of lumber destroyed on his land above Iron Springs Thursday evening. The origin of the fire is unknown. No other damage was done.

CHERRIES can be protected from rot and insects by spraying with Pyrox. See large advertisement.

LOST ARCANUM CONVENTION

Gettysburg Representatives Put up Good Fight but Lost out in Contest for Biennial Convention Two Years from now.

In spite of vigorous efforts Gettysburg lost the Royal Arcanum convention for 1912 to Pittsburg, the latter city winning out by a vote of 164 to 96 when the ballot was taken at Easton on Thursday.

A keen contest preceded the voting. Several members of the local lodge took with them to the convention at Easton a large number of badges and booklets recently issued concerning the battlefield. These were distributed broadcast among the delegates and things looked favorable for Gettysburg being chosen for the next biennial convention.

However, Pittsburg sent a large delegation and soon had the ground so thoroughly canvassed that the efforts of the few members from this place were unavailing and Gettysburg lost out, though polling a substantial vote.

The same booklets will be used in the campaign to secure other conventions and efforts will be put forth to get several state gatherings for next year.

KNOCKED DOWN LITTLE GIRL

Edith Smiley, a little daughter of J. Murray Smiley, was knocked down and badly bruised by N. H. Musselman's automobile at his alleyway on East Middle street Thursday evening. The little girl was playing with a number of companions on the pavement and when Mr. Musselman turned in from the street to go back to the rear of his lot she became confused and was struck and knocked down, the guard throwing her out of the path of the machine. Mr. Musselman carried her to the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smiley, and Dr. Dalbey was summoned. The injuries, which were at first feared to be serious, proved to consist principally of bad bruises.

Mr. Musselman had tooted his horn and slowed up before crossing the pavement and no blame attaches to him for the accident.

BASE BALL TEAM FOR GETTYSBURG

Liberal Support being given Base Ball Team which will Represent Town this Summer. Will Buy Uniforms and Schedule Games.

Gettysburg is to be represented by a base ball team this summer which from present indications, will uphold the honor of the town in the great national sport. So much interest has been taken in the project that almost enough money has already been subscribed to pay for the uniforms, and the management will proceed at once to have the team selected and games scheduled.

For several evenings preliminary practices have been held on Prep campus, a score or more candidates appearing for the various places on the team. The first nine will be chosen in a day or two by a committee of local enthusiasts and the remainder will be held as available substitutes whenever needed.

Following the organization and the starting of the arrangement of a schedule subscriptions will be received to pay for the support of the team. It is proposed to use the system of monthly support so that there will be a regular source of income throughout the entire season. Monthly subscriptions will therefore be asked. The requests for the subscriptions or equipment of the team have met with only one refusal up to this time and people generally seem to welcome the idea of the town having a representative aggregation of ball players.

The best local talent has turned out for practice and the good players brought to light during the term of last year's Sunday School League are again on hand.

The nine to represent the town this summer will be known as the Gettysburg Y. M. C. A. team and its manager will be the Y. M. C. A. secretary, George C. Fissel. He is ready to receive offers for games from nearby towns.

In addition to the amount given as received from taxes must be added the sum of $899.73 which was paid in by Tax Collector Frock on the special fund used for the payment of coupons and the redemption of outstanding borough and sewer bonds.

COLLEGE GETS PENN'S PLACE

Gettysburg College Gets Place of University of Pennsylvania in List Accepted by Philadelphia Board of Education.

Gettysburg College has been placed on the accepted list of colleges and universities approved by the Philadelphia Board of Education in giving financial aid to the graduates of the high schools of that city.

The local institution gets the place formerly held by the University of Pennsylvania, the authorities at the big university failing to earn the approval of the city board this year.

Philadelphia annually gives $400 each in four equal annual installments to the one hundred graduates having the best rank in the public schools of that city. This money is to be used toward defraying the expenses at one of the institutions on the list which they pass upon annually. For some years the University of Pennsylvania got all these students.

The placing of Gettysburg on the list, which includes less than a half dozen schools, will doubtless increase materially the number of students from the Quaker City to the local college and the move is one greatly welcomed by the college authorities at this place.

SENATOR GALLINGER.

President Pro Tem.

SENATE IN DEADLOCK ON PRESIDENT PRO TEM

Insurgents Block Election of Gallinger.

Washington, May 12.—The senate was deadlocked when an effort was made to elect a president pro tempore.

The progressives stood by their guns and prevented the selection of Senator Gallinger, who was the choice of the regulars in caucus.

On the first ballot Mr. Gallinger received 32; Mr. Bacon, Democrat, 35; Mr. Clapp, insurgent, 4; Mr. Bristow, insurgent, 1; Mr. Tillman, Democrat, 1.

The ballots disclosed eighteen senators not voting. An effort made by Senator Root to force paired Republican senators to vote precipitated a heated debate.

Three more ballots were taken without result. A long deadlock is regarded as certain. It was announced that all but four of the progressives would vote for Senator Clapp against Senator Gallinger, the choice of the regulars.

A preliminary informal canvass based on the full strength of the senate gave Gallinger 41 votes, Clapp 9, and Bacon, Democrat, 41.

DEFIED FARMERS WHO THREATENED

Taft Told Them to Do as They Like About Reciprocity.

SURPRISE FOR POLITICIANS

They Wonder If Increased Favors of the Ultimate Consumer Will Overcome Farmers' Hostility in 1912.

Washington, May 11.—Nothing that has happened in Washington in recent months has caused more of a stir among the politicians than the speech made the other day to representatives of the Grange by President Taft.

Reduced to the language that everybody understands, the president told the gentlemen representing the Grange, who called on him and told him about the dangers of reciprocity to the farmer, and in effect held the club of political retaliation over his head that if they did not like it they could do as they pleased about it.

Of course, when a president indulges in such plain speaking as this the politicians hold up their hands and wonder what is to come of it all. Just now they are saying that the effect of this speech will be to bury President Taft so deep in ballots in the elections of next year that he will not be able to get out for months.

As a matter of fact, the politicians have been talking with great frankness about the case of President Taft for months. Most of them agree that he will not be re-elected—provided the Democrats nominate a strong candidate. The Democratic politicians, of course, aver this, and most of the regular politicians say the same thing. Some of the regulars want the president to succeed himself, and others do not. As for the insurgent Republicans, most of them want him defeated.

In a general way, this represents the situation as it has existed for many weeks; and the opponents of Taft now say that his advocacy of reciprocity, and especially his virtual defiance of the farmers, who are against reciprocity, greatly accentuates his difficulties.

But there is another side to the situation. In the first place, it is clear that only a part of the farmers are opposed to the Canadian agreement. In the second place, the question is raised to what extent President Taft, by his fight for reciprocity, is going to rally to his support the ultimate consumers of the United States who live in the cities and towns. The agitation of the tariff question is due to the protest of the ultimate consumers against the high cost of living. Without doubt the character of the population of the country is changing. The United States is becoming a nation in which the number of consumers is growing by leaps and bounds, while the number of producers is relatively diminishing.

President Taft, in his advocacy of reciprocity, has taken the side, it is generally considered, of the consuming public. This raises the question in a political way whether the consumers of the country are going to stand by him. In other words, the question is whether the president will gain as much support—or more—from the consumers as he is going to lose from those producing elements that oppose reciprocity or any reduction of tariff duties.

President Taft himself is not looking for anything but loss of votes from the advocacy of reciprocity. He did not take the matter up for the sake of political advantage. He realizes as well as any one that he will probably suffer severe political consequences. Still, it might happen to turn out the other way. And this is what the political wiseacres are wondering about.

Lived 12 Years With Broken Neck.

New York, May 12.—Walter E. Dureya, who lived almost a full dozen years with a broken neck, died at his home in Upper Montclair, in his forty-fourth year. He broke his neck in August, 1899, by jumping from the Casino at Glencove, landing on his head in the sand in three feet of water. After ten months in the Roosevelt hospital, following two operations on which the doctors had based the slight hope that he would recover he mended and so recovered his faculties that by shrewd investment he increased about $800,000 which he inherited from his father to $2,500,000.

Commutes Term of Aged Murderer.

Washington, May 12.—President Taft commuted, to expire immediately, the life sentence of Daniel Jones, of Oklahoma, who was convicted of the murder of his cousin, William Jones. Jones was sentenced to death on July 11, 1884, but that sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. He is now an old man, has lost one leg while in prison and has served almost twenty-seven years.

Aviator Killed in Fog.

Berlin, May 12.—Aviator Bokemue-ler was killed while flying in a fog about the Johannisthal aviation field. The airman lost his bearings and the machine crashed into a building. The aeroplane was wrecked and Bokemue-ller fell to the ground and was killed.

SNOWSTORM TIES UP TRAFFIC AT WINNIPEG

Street Railway and Electric
Plant Cut Off.

Winnipeg, Man., May 12.—As a result of the most extraordinary summer snow and rainstorm in the history of Manitoba, Winnipeg is completely tied up.

The electric street railway company is out of business and all of the electric power in Winnipeg is now cut off.

The transformer transmitting power from the company's hydro-electric plant at Lac du Bonnet was struck by lightning in the midst of a tremendous electric storm.

The storm means many millions to the entire west in improved crop conditions. A huge volume of water fell during the night. At 9 o'clock in the morning the mercury stood at 35, and the coldest of the night was 33. At 5 o'clock the rain turned to soft snow, which lasted all morning.

DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR STOPPED

Harmless, Old-Fashioned Remedy Brings Back Color to Gray Hair and Makes It Grow.

How many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old-time, tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy nothing equals our grandmothers' "sage tea." Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer.

Nowadays, when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy.

Druggists are authorized to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

REBELS SET UP GOVERNMENT

Madero Announces Names of Cabinet Members.

QUIET AFTER THE BATTLE

Peace Talk Is Again Under Way and an Effort Is Being Made to Arrange Another Armistice.

El Paso, Tex., May 12.—With Juarez in their possession, the Mexican insurgents set up their provisional government and Francisco I. Madero announced his cabinet.

The members are: Dr. Vasquez Gomez, minister of foreign relations; Venus Tiano Carranza, minister of war; Gustavo Madero, brother of the rebel leader, minister of finance; Frederico Gonzales Garza, minister of the interior; Pino Suarez, minister of justice; Juan Sanchez Azcona, secretary to the president.

The announcement of the cabinet appointments followed a meeting of the chiefs and advisers in Madero's headquarters. It was decided that Secretary of War Carranza will have charge of the railways and telegraphs; Secretary of the Interior Garza will be in charge of the mail service, and Secretary of the Treasury Madero will direct the affairs of the custom house.

The insurrecto cabinet will at once devote its energies to seeking recognition from the various foreign governments.

The captured city was opened to the public from El Paso and thousands flocked to the rebel capital of Mexico. Automobiles, bicycles, street cars and every known method of transportation was used.

While the town was filled with sightseers a panic was created when one or two of the Madero soldiers, who had been given drink by American visitors, became boisterous and started firing their weapons. Several women began to scream and run, while men fought to get out of the way. The situation was tense for a short time, but the insurrecto commander arrested the disturbers and soon had quiet restored.

Peace talk is still under way and every effort is being made by Braniff and Obregon, the two go-betweens, to induce Diaz to call a truce temporarily.

With the insurrectos in possession of Juarez, the orders having been issued to the United States troops to permit them to import provisions and medical supplies, they are not anxious to start an offensive campaign at once, but having knowledge that General Rabago and federal reinforcements are coming from Chihuahua, Orozco and elsewhere, the entire force now in Juarez, together with all forces he can call in from the south, will leave to meet Rabago and give battle. Obregon and Braniff are attempting to have the federals hold Rabago back while the peace negotiations are continued. Madero is willing to reopen them, and it may be that an armistice will be agreed to in a very few hours. Like all insurrecto matters, however, such a statement is merely a guess.

Colonel E. Z. Steever, commanding the United States border guard, was advised by the war department that he might permit food and medical supplies to be sent to the insurrectos in Juarez. This settles a question that has been troubling the insurrectos and people of El Paso.

The attitude of the rebels on the question of the resignation of President Diaz hardly has crystallized yet. Dr. Vasquez Gomez, one of the rebel peace commissioners, declared it was still the paramount consideration on which all prospects for peace hinged.

The rebels have taken the stand that their demand that President Diaz make public merely his intention of resigning has been met with such a vague and haughty reply that they now will demand the fixing of the exact time for his retirement.

With reference to the contention of the government that insubordination in the Madero ranks provoked the attack on Juarez and that General Madero is not in control of his soldiers, the rebels openly charge trickery on the part of the government to disseminate the opinion that a state of anarchy is prevalent in the republic and that, therefore, it would be fatal for President Diaz to abdicate under such circumstances.

The rebels maintain that they are asking merely for steps toward a gradual readjustment of the administration of the republic and they believe the automatic transfer of the power to their own political party soon will follow.

CHURCH AT JUAREZ.

Building In Which Diaz Troops Made Desperate Stand.

FIVE SMOTHERED IN MINE FIRE

Workers in Boston Colliery Killed Trying to Escape.

RESCUERS SAVE THREE

An Alarm Was Given in the Workings Near Wilkes-Barre, But Many Were Overcome.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 12.—Five lives were lost in the Boston mine of the Delaware & Hudson company at Larksville by suffocation.

The names of the dead are: George Feeder, aged twenty years, driver.

John Melodecki, aged seventeen, a door boy.

Jacog Kenulla, aged thirty-nine, a miner, single.

Charles Kermuski, aged twenty-five, laborer, married.

William Adamke, laborer, twenty-five years old, single.

Fire started in a section of the mine where a number of rock miners were employed, but it was gotten under control without much difficulty. Eleven men were at work in that section.

After midnight the odor of smoke was detected and the alarm was given. All the employees in the inside workings made their way from the Ross vein to the main gangway, but the smoke had become so dense that nearly all were overcome.

Several rescue parties at the risk of their own lives then entered the workings and succeeded in taking out John Morrissey, Patrick Lloyd and John Benditus. When brought to the surface they were quickly revived. The rescuers returning to the gangway stumbled over bodies of the dead. The latter were brought out as soon as possible. Several of the rescuers were overcome by the smoke and one of them was prostrated. He was rescued by a fourth rescuing party.

So far as the investigation has gone as to the cause of the fire, it is said that a workman left a naked light in the shaft, which fired the timbers. The blaze worked its way down the shaft timbers, sending the smoke into the various chambers. The men were trapped in one of the inner gangways. The flames and smoke drove them forward, and all avenues of escape were cut off.

John A. Jones, day foreman of the colliery, was the first to enter the workings from the surface. He at once called for rescuers. John Morrissey, who was first to discover the fire, outlined a plan to his companions as to how they could all be saved. Morrissey and one of his fellow workmen went to the rescue of Feeder and Melodecki, but the walls of dense smoke drove them back and they had to give up the task. Morrissey and his companions then made a dash for the main air course, only to have their way cut off with a heavy brattice work.

Summoning all their strength, they huddled themselves against the brattice and broke it down. Then they made their way quickly to the foot of the shaft and were hoisted to the surface, where they received medical attention.

The rescuers, with the use of dynamite, blocked the air current, and in this way entrance was gained into the chambers where it was known the five missing men were at work. The bodies of Feeder and Melodecki were found together. They had started to work their way to the foot of the shaft, but were overcome by the dense smoke. An hour later the bodies of the other three victims were found, a hundred yards from the chamber where they had been working.

The fire continues to rage in the mine, but the company officials state they expect to have it under control in a short time.

A strike was inaugurated at the colliery on Tuesday and only a small number of men were at work. Had the full force been engaged the loss of life would have been much greater.

BIG RATE PROBE ORDERED

Interstate Commission Inquiry Will Affect Wool and Hide Tariffs.

Washington, May 12.—A comprehensive investigation of alleged unreasonable freight rates on wool, hides and pelts from western points of origin to eastern destinations was ordered by the interstate commerce commission.

The inquiry will affect wool, hide and pelt rates throughout the country. The investigation, instituted on the commission's own initiative, developed from complaints filed by the National Wool Growers' association and the Oregon railroad commission against western carriers.

When the commission decided what are known as the "Pacific coast casts" it reversed because of lack of evidence the wool rates for future disposition.

The old musket was discharged, tearing the upper part of the lad's body almost to pieces.

There is no hope for his recovery.

FIVE SMOTHERED IN MINE FIRE

Workers in Boston Colliery Killed Trying to Escape.

RESCUERS SAVE THREE

An Alarm Was Given in the Workings Near Wilkes-Barre, But Many Were Overcome.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 12.—Five lives were lost in the Boston mine of the Delaware & Hudson company at Larksville by suffocation.

The names of the dead are: George Feeder, aged twenty years, driver.

John Melodecki, aged seventeen, a door boy.

Jacog Kenulla, aged thirty-nine, a miner, single.

Charles Kermuski, aged twenty-five, laborer, married.

William Adamke, laborer, twenty-five years old, single.

Fire started in a section of the mine where a number of rock miners were employed, but it was gotten under control without much difficulty. Eleven men were at work in that section.

After midnight the odor of smoke was detected and the alarm was given. All the employees in the inside workings made their way from the Ross vein to the main gangway, but the smoke had become so dense that nearly all were overcome.

Several rescue parties at the risk of their own lives then entered the workings and succeeded in taking out John Morrissey, Patrick Lloyd and John Benditus. When brought to the surface they were quickly revived. The rescuers returning to the gangway stumbled over bodies of the dead. The latter were brought out as soon as possible. Several of the rescuers were overcome by the smoke and one of them was prostrated. He was rescued by a fourth rescuing party.

So far as the investigation has gone as to the cause of the fire, it is said that a workman left a naked light in the shaft, which fired the timbers. The blaze worked its way down the shaft timbers, sending the smoke into the various chambers. The men were trapped in one of the inner gangways. The flames and smoke drove them forward, and all avenues of escape were cut off.

John A. Jones, day foreman of the colliery, was the first to enter the workings from the surface. He at once called for rescuers. John Morrissey, who was first to discover the fire, outlined a plan to his companions as to how they could all be saved. Morrissey and one of his fellow workmen went to the rescue of Feeder and Melodecki, but the walls of dense smoke drove them back and they had to give up the task. Morrissey and his companions then made a dash for the main air course, only to have their way cut off with a heavy brattice work.

Summoning all their strength, they huddled themselves against the brattice and broke it down. Then they made their way quickly to the foot of the shaft and were hoisted to the surface, where they received medical attention.

The rescuers, with the use of dynamite, blocked the air current, and in this way entrance was gained into the chambers where it was known the five missing men were at work. The bodies of Feeder and Melodecki were found together. They had started to work their way to the foot of the shaft, but were overcome by the dense smoke. An hour later the bodies of the other three victims were found, a hundred yards from the chamber where they had been working.

The fire continues to rage in the mine, but the company officials state they expect to have it under control in a short time.

A strike was inaugurated at the colliery on Tuesday and only a small number of men were at work. Had the full force been engaged the loss of life would have been much greater.

BIG RATE PROBE ORDERED

Interstate Commission Inquiry Will Affect Wool and Hide Tariffs.

Washington, May 12.—A comprehensive investigation of alleged unreasonable freight rates on wool, hides and pelts from western points of origin to eastern destinations was ordered by the interstate commerce commission.

The inquiry will affect wool, hide and pelt rates throughout the country. The investigation, instituted on the commission's own initiative, developed from complaints filed by the National Wool Growers' association and the Oregon railroad commission against western carriers.

When the commission decided what are known as the "Pacific coast casts" it reversed because of lack of evidence the wool rates for future disposition.

KILLS BROTHER AT PLAY

Fired Revolutionary Musket In Wild West Game.

Mineola, L. I., May 12.—In a wild west game in the attic of his home at Hapague, six-year-old Johnnie Richardson found a Revolutionary musket and leveled it at his four-year-old brother, Fred.

The old musket was discharged, tearing the upper part of the lad's body almost to pieces.

There is no hope for his recovery.

Fruit Growers & Potato Raisers

Atomic Sulphur or Lime Sulphur Solution combined with Arsenate of Lead used as directed in Prof. Scott's Bulletin, is the best treatment for controlling fungous diseases and Codling Moth on apples and Lime Sulphur Solution 2 gallons to 50 gallons of water with from 3 to 4 lbs. of Arsenate of Lead added to the diluted mixture is the best treatment for use on potatoes.

Growers, however, who prefer to use Bordeaux Mixture combined with Arsenate of Lead, notwithstanding the evidence that other treatments are better, do not need to purchase it under a proprietary name or at fancy prices. (See Statements of Prof. Stewart on Page 183 of the Report of the State Horticultural Association for 1911).

If you will come to us we will sell you Bordeaux Mixture combined with Arsenate of Lead under its proper name and on its own merit at 8c per lb., in 25, 50, or 100 lb. packages.

We believe, however, the growers in Adams County will make a mistake in using Bordeaux Mixture or any preparation containing copper, because of the almost certain russetting of the fruit which destroys its natural beauty and lessens its true market value.

THE PEKIN DUCK FOR LUCK.

Uncle Sam holds the record for quack quality. But for quack quantity go to China. There it's quack, quack, everywhere. We quack second and may quack there forever, for China is the rubber-neck nation--ducks a vast national

DANDY DUCKLINGS--TWO WEEKS OLD.

Industry, her great public hatcheries turning them out by millions, to be herded by boatmen on the rivers like cattle on the prairie.

The Pekin is earth's greatest quack, humans excepted. It originated in China, but has been made over by Uncle Sam's rooster tinkers into the dandiest of ducks.

John Bull's Aylesbury and the French Rouen are good to eat, but your uncle's Pekin has them beat.

What a difference between a perfect Pekin and a calico colored, fishy, puddle duck that lives on tadpoles, mullets and water skippers!

And why do some farmers persist in producing the fishy quacks that weigh but four fishy, tough pounds at eight months when a delicious pure bred, celery fed Pekin weighs eight tender, juicy pounds in ten weeks and sells way out of sight?

The Pekin is the greatest market duck. It's easiest to raise, the fastest grower, dresses quickest, cleanest prettiest, and is the popular yellow. It has few diseases, reaches as high as twenty-four pounds to the pair and is a wonderful layer of the largest duck egg.

AN EIGHT POUND GREEN PEKIN TWO MONTHS OLD.

Pekins are mostly hatched with incubators and hens, need no pond and require but reasonable care and accommodations.

You are raising Pekins? Congratulations! Then try the following for duckling diet: Mash for first week three parts bran, one part cornmeal, one part wheat midds, one-half part beef scrap, 5 per cent sharp sand, no greens; after seventh day three parts bran, one part cornmeal, one part midds, two parts beef scrap, two parts green food, 5 per cent sand. Gradually increase cornmeal and beef scrap and fatten at two months. For fattening feed three parts cornmeal, one part midds, 10 per cent of bulk beef scrap and no greens. Omit scrap when milk is used and keep market ducks from swimming and much exercise.

DON'TS.

Don't cast thy pearls before a bull-head. Don't chatter; that's no sign of gray matter. Silence is golden, and words that tell are those that are considered well.

Don't use an incubator with a soiled nursery floor. Cleanse well and disinfect before you start.

Don't use the same lamp burner every season. A new burner every spring and some on hand for emergencies is the ticket.

Don't rebuff advice; study it and think twice. It's all right to tell others what to do if they should ask some kind advice of you, but butting in--we've never seen it pay, especially when a female's tongue is in play.

Even under the most favorable conditions the giving of birth to the young animals on the farm means for the dams a severe drain not only upon their nervous system, but also their store of physical vitality. For this reason great care should be taken to see that all animals with young should be so fed as to be abundantly nourished, while the quarters in which they give birth to their offspring should be dry and clean and free from drafts of air. Care in these two particulars would save a world of grief and loss for the average stock raiser.

MADE RESPECTABLE

"Well, sir, what are you doing here?"

A man in pajamas stood looking at another who was covering him with his revolver. They were in the dining room of the former, and the latter had taken the family silver from the sideboard.

"I am about to remove your silver."

"Are you a married man?"

"I am."

"Children?"

"A boy and a girl."

"Suppose I should break into your house at night and rob you of your children?"

"I would kill you."

"But suppose you were in my present position and I in yours?"

"I would afterward hunt you down and kill you."

"That is what society will surely do to you; it will get you at last and will punish you."

The burglar looked surprised. He was not used to having his victims thus argue with him.

"I am not doing this for my own benefit. I am doing it for my children. If I didn't they would starve. Indeed, they were starving when I commenced it, and that is the reason why I commenced it. Having started in, I must keep it up."

"I would advise you to drop it."

"I would be glad to take your advice, for I know well that what you say is true. But when I drop it the wolf comes back to the door and he will not be driven away; he will have all I love. I can't bear to see them die, and when they are dead what is the world to me? The evil day comes, but by taking your property I may put it off for some time."

"Suppose," said the householder, "you could get work and keep it."

"You might as well suppose you could shoot me without getting hurt yourself."

"You have a terse way of putting things. You should have been a lawyer."

"I am as honest as many of them, especially those who make fortunes by telling financial kings how they may rob the public and keep out of jail. And I am as honest as some judges who interpret the law for the benefit of these same financial kings."

The man in the pajamas started.

"How," continued the burglar, "could the great robberies of the hundreds of millions in the wreckage and absorption of the small concerns by the large ones have been accomplished except by the ruling of these same judges?"

It was now the turn of the man in the pajamas to be impressed.

"I know a lawyer," he said after some thought, "who will take your case and serve you as well as these others have served the big financiers."

"I should have to take your silver plate to pay his fee, and likely he would take the fee and let the case take care of itself."

"H'm! I'm not sure but that you would conduct it better than he. However, I may as well pay the fee myself in money as in my plate, much of which consists of heirlooms which I can't replace. I will see that your lawyer is paid. Permit me to call for the police. Submit to arrest. I will furnish bail, and when you are tried I will see that you go free. Then I will provide a way for you to earn a living without risk."

The burglar gave up his revolver. The man in the pajamas took it, telephoning to the police, and when they came they found the burglar covered with his own weapon. They took him to the police station and locked him up for the night. The next morning bail was furnished by a friend unknown except to the culprit.

When the burglar was tried he was astonished to see his friend of the pajamas on the bench. An attorney arose and, beginning, "May it please your honor," went on to say that he would prove the prisoner a member of a church and a leader in all good works; that an alibi would be established and it would be apparent that the accused was a greatly wronged man."

And he did.

"That's exactly the way," said the burglar, "I should have gone about the matter myself had I been a lawyer and conducted my own case."

"I told you," said the judge, "that you had legal talents. You are discharged."

As the burglar passed out a policeman told him that the judge wished him to call at his house the same afternoon. The burglar called, and the judge said to him:

"I have kept my word so far and intend to keep it further. I can't make you a lawyer because you are not highly enough educated. The next best thing I can do for you is to put you in office. I am hand in glove with the political boss. He will make you one of his principal henchmen, and within a year you will be appointed to a position where you will have the care of millions of the people's money."

"Thank you, judge, for making me respectable."

The subject of this sketch is now a political boss. He makes senators, judges, representatives and appoints men to offices that are not elective. The judge who made him respectable sits on the bench during the boss's pleasure. But the judge did not warm a serpent in his bosom. The boss lets him stay.

An unkempt cedar or cypress hedge is not a lovely thing, but, trimmed or no, it furnishes the birds--our most valued benefactors--with a protection from their worst enemies--cats and hawks by day and owls by night. We passed just such a hedge the other evening at dusk, where a number of juncos were roosting, and caught a screech owl in the attempt to get at the birds. But in spite of the fact that its eyes were good the hedge was so dense that the owl could not get at its prey. We have had a kindlier feeling for that hedge since.
